1. By direction of the Secretary of War paragraph 1767 of the Regulations, as amended by General Orders, No. 7, 1890, Adjutant-General's Office, is further amended to read as follows:

UNDRESS FOR ALL OFFICERS.

1787. For marches, fatigue duty, and ordinary wear.—A sack coat of dark blue cloth or serce; single breasted; standing collar, fastened with hook and eye; coat to close with a flap containing five concealed black buttons and button-holes; the skirt to extend from one-third to two-thirds the distance from the hip joint to the bend of the knee, according to height of wearer. To be cut to fit the figure easily; back in a single piece with curved side seams; a vertical opening in each side at the hip, according to pattern; the sword belt to be worn underneath the coat, the sword hook emerging through the opening in the left side. The shoulder strap to be worn; too insignia of the corps or the number of the regiment on each side of the collar, according to pattern.

Trimmings.—Of lustrous black mohair flat-braid, as follows: to be edged all around the bottom, the front edges, the collar, and for six inches upward from the bottom, along both side openings of the skirt, with braid one inch wide. On each side of the breast, five double rows of three eighths inch braid, with crow's feet at the outer ends; the crow's feet of the top rows extending nearly to the sleeve seams, the lowest crow's feet to be about six inches apart, according to measure of waist. On each sleeve, an Austrian knot of three-eighths inch braid, according to pattern, extending about nine inches upward from the bottom of the cuff; along each back seam a double row of three-eighths inch braid ending with crow's feet at top and bottom. At discretion of wearer there may be two or four small outside pockets on the breast, the openings to be concealed by the braid.

When officers are serving in the field, the coat as above described will be worn except that the braid trimmings may be omitted. During the warm season department commanders may authorize this coat to be worn made of white duck or white flannel, without braid.

DEPARTMENT NEWS.Dept. of Texas.—Brig. Gen. Frank Wheaton.

A recent despatch says: "The overflow of the Rio Grande River continues to cause great damage in the neighborhood of Rio Grande City. The river just in front of the city has changed its course so completely as to throw several hundred acres of land on the Mexican side. An island, 500 acres in extent, has been formed just opposite Fort Ringgold by the river turning off a point of land that extended from the U. S. side into the original stream."

A despatch says information has reached San Antonio of an affray Sept. 24 on the Lower Grande river between a detachment of U. S. troops under command of Capt. Francis H. Hardie, 3d Cav., and a band of Mexican outlaws. There were no fatalities. Capt. Hardie has sent full particulars of the affray to Gen. Wheaton. A posse of Deputy U. S. Marshals were with the troops and participated in the fight.

Dept. of the Columbia.—Brig.-Gen. T. H. Ruger.

The military forces in the Coeur d'Alene were reduced Sept. 14 by the departure of five companies of the 14th Infantry for Vancouver Bks. The departure of these troops leaves seven companies in the field, all of the 4th Infantry, under command of Col. Wm. P. Carlin, of Fort Sherman. Capt. Balance, A. J. A. G., is still at Wallace, and will remain until martial law is discontinued.

REGULAR ARMY AND NAVY UNION.

After a most successful and enthusiastic rally, the convention of the National Regular Army and Navy Reunion at Detroit has come to a close. Thanks were tendered to Detroit for her hospitality, to the 19th U. S. Infantry, and to the 4th Infantry, Michigan State troops. St. Louis was chosen as the city for the next convention. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: National Commander, J. F. Roche; Vice Commander, Henry Shindler; Deputy Vice Commander, J. P. Lockwood; Paymaster, A. C. G. DeHens; Surgeon, Dr. Jacob A. Lommel; Chaplain, Rev. John E. Cox; Adjutant, Richard J. Fanning; Judge Advocate, John A. Keefe; Rev. R. S. Sidelinger, trustee, five years; R. L. McKnight, of Cleveland, O., national inspector. One of the conspicuous delegates was Capt. Edwin A. Whitten, of Lawrence, Mass., a lieutenant of the 9th U. S. Infantry during the Mexican War, a sturdy and vigorous man, despite the many years that have whitened his hair. Capt. Whitten is as well preserved a specimen of the soldiers who conquered the land of cactus and bronchos as can be found.

The troops here are drilling twice a day, getting ready to go to Chicago next month, though more than likely they won't all go; still, the drill will not come amiss.

The new bachelor building that is to take the place of Hancock Hall is nearing completion. The roof is all done and now only the interior remains to be finished. About the same may be said of the general mess hall. Both of these buildings ought to be ready for use in about six weeks.

Much to the regret of everyone, the new hop room is not progressing so fast. But this is not to be expected, as the prisoners have to work out all the stone before they lay it in the walls. It will not be practicable to work on this during the winter; some think it will be two years yet before this building will be ready for use. While these new buildings are going up a number of old ones are coming down. All the barns on the north and east sides of Summer Place are either down or soon to be down. This throws a good many horses and cows out of quarters, but they can find room in the old Q. M. barn back of the West End.

The eleven non-commissioned officers ordered here to be examined for commissions have been in the toil for the last week and will probably not finish for another week.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. Gilmore gave a lunch to the ladies of the garrison. The universal opinion was that it was the prettiest lunch that had ever been given here. The house and tables were perfect bowers of flowers and the lunch was excellent.

Gen. and Mrs. Penrose have been spending a week with their son here.

Major and Mrs. Moore, 5th Cav., are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Swigert. They are en route to their new station.

A good many of the officers here are opposed to the new blouse that has been authorized by the War Department, and about fifty of them signed a statement to that effect, which was sent to the War Department.

THE KANSAS CITY TIMES says:

Lieut. Penn, Jr., 18th Inf., is a visitor at the post. His detail for duty at Frankford Arsenal, with station at Philadelphia, is an acknowledgment of his high standing in the school here, from which he graduated with distinction seven years ago.

Mrs. W. H. Wood, of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Lieut. and Mrs. Swaine.

CHIEF ENGINEER L. W. ROBINSON, U. S. N., was in Philadelphia last week on business connected with the Machinery Department of the Columbian Exposition, of which he is the head. During his absence from Chicago Mr. Robinson paid a brief visit to Washington. The duties of this officer are of a most arduous type, and it has been suggested that an assistant be directed to join Chief Engr. Robinson in the work of preparing for the great affair of next year.

THE Brooklyn Citizen thus reports the unhappy experience of "a Republican politician office-holder and soldier who resides in the Tenth ward": "I was," said this gentleman, "down on business in connection with a Government contract, and I was compelled to go to headquarters to see his royal nibs. When the subaltern ushered me into the presence of Erben, the latter asked me what I wanted, and told me to be quick about business, as he had no time to fool away. I delivered myself of my errand and during my conversation with him he spoke to me as if I were a dog. While in Washington I saw Secretary Tracy and told him of my experience with Erben. I said that the commandant of the Brooklyn yard had not renounced the manners he exercised on the quarterdeck when he was at sea and I thought such a man ought to be reprimanded. General Tracy smiled in a quiet way and said nothing, but other Naval officers in Washington told me that a little thing like that ought not to bother me, as Erben will soon be retired and his place filled probably by Captain Schley, who commanded the Greely relief expedition." This gentleman will have to wait for two years for the retirement of Commodore Erben, which does not occur until Sept. 6, 1894. Meanwhile, as he will be pleased to know, the Commodore is managing the affairs of the Brooklyn Navy-yard very much to the satisfaction of the Department.

We congratulate Lieut. Henry L. Ripley, 31 U. S. Cav., upon his detail as engineer officer of the Dept. of Texas, with station at San Antonio. He filled a similar position at the Headquarters Dept. of the Missouri. The Battalion of Engineers has reason to be proud of its former member.

MAJOR W. P. HUXFORD, U. S. A., retired, clerk of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and recorder of the District of Columbia Commandery of the Loyal Legion, who has been confined to bed with a severe attack of facial erysipelas, is convalescing and hopes to be out again in the near future.

The late Gen. John Pope, by dating one of his orders "Headquarters in the saddle," prompted the Confederate commander, Robert E. Lee, to perceive what was said to be the only joke of his life. "What can you expect?" he is credited with saying, "of a general who puts his headquarters where his headquarters ought to be."

CAPTAIN HENRY H. KUHN, U. S. A., retired, of Johnstown, Pa., is well up in Masonic honors and has a distinguished record in that organization. He joined a Lodge at Somerset, Pa., in 1866, and was recently elected to the thirty-third degree—the last of the A. A. S. R. Masons of the Northern Jurisdiction of the U. S., by the Supreme Council in session at Providence, R. I.

CAPTAIN JOHN L. TIERNAN, 3d Artillery, commanded the battalion of U. S. artillery from Fort McHenry, reinforced by Bat. B, 3d Art., from Fort Monroe, Va., in the parade in Baltimore, Md., Sept. 17. The battalion led the column and marched splendidly, stepping with great precision and regularity. It was conspicuous for its neat and soldierly appearance and elicited much applause along the entire line of march.

Thousands of the Grand Army men passed through Ft. Myer on their way to Arlington. Quite a delegation from the 75th Ohio Vols., 40th Massachusetts Vols., and 1st Massachusetts Cav. called on Gen. Guy V. Henry, their old commander, to express their pleasure at seeing him, and to revive many reminiscences of the war, full of anecdote and interest. The boys will never, they say, forget Guy V. The colonel of the 75th, Anderson, is now Lieutenant-Governor of Ohio.—Washington Star.

Kansas City Times strongly advocates Capt. Ward E. Wood, 8th U. S. Cav., for the vacant professorship of Modern Languages at West Point, saying: "In learning, ability as a teacher, long experience in the practical duties of the professor, and general fitness for the position, Capt. Wood certainly compares very favorably with any of his competitors. . . . The captain is well known throughout the Army as a dignified and courteous gentleman, admirably fitted to take charge of young men, as he undoubtedly is to instruct them."

It was discovered by aid of a strong glass that name 'Robert E. Geisel' or 'Easel' was written by side with the name 'E. Colley' on the dead man's cuffs."

PLEASANT feature of encampment week in Washington was the entertainment at the Army and Navy Club of visiting members of commanderies of the Loyal Legion. The visiting members of the Legion were accorded full privileges of the club and nearly 800 of them availed themselves of hospitality from Monday morning until Saturday, and were charmed with every phase of the arrangements were formulated by W. P. Huxford, recorder of the District commandery, and the eminent success of the week's entertainment was due to the unremitting efforts of Volkmar, Asst. Engr. Bennett and Lieut. U. S. M. C., members of the house committee of the club, who were in constant attendance, were not in the least dismayed by the fact that the time the club was without a steward. All of twenty commanderies of the Loyal Legion were present, and they thoroughly enjoyed the carte given them to the privileges of the club. The distinguished visitors entertained by Army and Navy Club during encampment week Ex-President Hayes, Vice-President Morton, Senator Hawley, Col. McCawley, Gen. O'Rorke, Gen. The Harrisburg Telegraph, referring to the detail of Capt. C. A. Booth, 7th U. S. Inf., to duty with the National Guard of Pennsylvania, says: "This will keep him in Harrisburg another year. Capt. Booth has made a host of friends during his brief residence in the city, and the news that he will prolong his stay among us will be received with pleasure by those who know the genial officer and appreciate his worth as a citizen and soldier. Capt. Booth has had an opportunity to study the National Guard of Pennsylvania during the past two years, and has frequently expressed his admiration of the organization as a military force."

ARMY REUNIONS AT WASHINGTON.

In the New York Sun, Amos J. Cummings, M. C., himself a veteran of the war, says: "The Grand Army display in Washington will long be memorable. Nothing like it has ever before been seen in America. Nothing like it will again be seen by this generation. It was the culmination of all past Grand Army parades. From this time forward there will be a decrease in the number of veterans attending national encampments, until the last post answers the final roll call. Every veteran in the land had a desire to visit Washington. Each in years past had a personal interest in its safety, and all were anxious to revisit it before the final summons. The living who had been in the grand review in 1865 longed to again appear in line. For them Washington had many a sacred memory. Lincoln, Grant, McClellan, Meade, Warren, Hancock, Sherman, Sheridan, Hooker—all were dead; yet their spirits seemed to linger in the national capital. When Washington was named as the place for the twenty-seventh encampment the spirit of patriotism flamed in the hearts of the veterans as it had never burned since the war. No wonder that they came here by the hundreds of thousands. The opportunity was magnificent. All would be more than welcome. The citizens of the District had poured out their money, regardless of expense, to entertain the visitors. Schoolhouses and public buildings had been set aside for dormitories, and acres upon acres of tents were spread around the Washington Monument and in the public parks. The promised welcome was real. Cab drivers charged no more than in ordinary times, and lodgings and meals were to be had at reasonable rates. Railroad fares were reduced one-half, and excursion trains were run to the battlefields at low rates. No complaint of extortion has been made. The Grand Army veterans swarmed to the city in full faith, and their faith was not misplaced."

General O. O. Howard, U. S. A., was unanimously chosen President of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee. Other officers were elected as follows: Secretary and Adjutant General, Gen. W. T. Clark; Vice-President Fifteenth Corps, Gen. Bernard G. Farrar; the Sixteenth Corps, Gen. G. M. Dodge; the Seventeenth Corps, Gen. Rusk; Thirteenth Corps, Gen. George W. Clark.

Gen. Howard, the last surviving Commander of the Army of the Tennessee, then delivered a short inaugural address, which was received with enthusiasm. Speeches were made by Generals Green B. Rau, E. A. Carr, U. S. A., Granville B. Dodge, Secretary Rusk, Secretary Noble, and Col. Asa C. Matthews.

Gen. Dodge told of an incident of his recent trip to Norway. He was making his way toward home and was sick, and after having travelled a long distance he reached a town and was directed to the best hotel there.

"Driving to the hotel," said the General, "I shook hands with the proprietor and asked him if he could accommodate me for a few days."

"Why, Gen. Dodge, I am an old soldier of yours, come in and make yourself at home," was the greeting.

The Army of the James held a reunion in Washington, with Gen. "Joe" Hawley as chairman, and Generals O. O. Howard, U. S. A., Conley, Pattison, Raum, John Stevenson, E. A. Hamilton, Cecil Clay, and Guy V. Henry, U. S. A.; Col. Stratton, Majors Walker and Geo. E. Steuits as speakers. General Henry said if he had the power he would see a statue erected for every private who served in the Army. It was the privates who did the work, while the officers got all the credit. He was frequently interrupted by applause.

Probably Congress would let him have the statues if he would do as Gen. Grant is said to have done when he paid the national debt "out of his own pocket."

At the reunion of the Fifth Army Corps speeches were made by Comrade Compton, Gen. Dani. Butterfield, Col. H. B. McKean, D. H. Kent, McCoy, Major James S. Stewart, Capt. Bieber, C. E. Mink and York.

Gen. Duncan S. Walker presided over the reunion of the 19th Corps. The speakers were Gen. A. W. Greely, U. S. A.; J. W. McMillan, Jas. S. Reynolds, Chaplain Upson and Major F. H. Buffum.

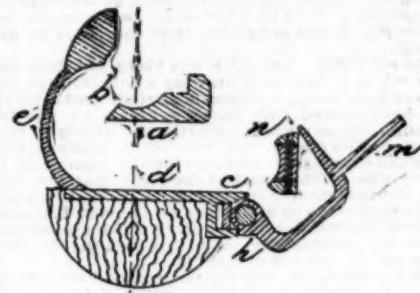

Gen. E. A. Carr, U. S. A., was re-elected president of the 18th Army Corps and made a speech, as did Gens. Hovey, Lindsay, Black, Basye, "Tom" Brady, Col. Bartlett, Col. Bruce and Rev. Mr. Ferguson. Resolutions were adopted asking the War Department to recognize the 18th Corps badge. The other officers elected were 1st vice-president, George W. Clark; 2d vice-president, J. S. Ferguson; secretary, Fletoher White; treasurer, E. C. Daugherty; surgeon, Dr. J. F. Curtis; Executive Committee—Gen. Frank Swigart, Col. Tom Brady, Gen. Geo. F. Maginnis, Capt. G. H. Childs, Col. H. S. Bunker and Gen. Isaac H. Elliott.

At a meeting of the 6th Corps, over which Gen. Dani. Butterfield, its first commander, presided, a brigade flag was presented. Col. Edward Hill, 16th Mich., read very interesting paper entitled "The Last Charge at Fredericksburg."

Col. W. R. Smedberg, U. S. A., presided over a reunion of the National Rifles of 1861. Col. Smedberg, Capt. Barnes, Col. W. G. Moore, Capt. Oyster, Lieut. Manson and others made addresses and reminiscences of the three months service were the feature of the evening.

THE KRAG-JORGENSEN GUN.

The illustrations of the Krug-Jorgensen gun which appeared in the JOURNAL of Sept. 17, were taken from the specification for the American patent dated June 10, 1890. This shows the gun as adopted by the Danish Government, and our description applied to that. The principal difference in the gun as recommended by the Small Arms Board is in the position of and manner of opening the magazine gate. In the Danish gun the hinge is vertical and the gate swings out and forward (as we illustrated), leaving the opening for the introduction of cartridges a flat space from which they would roll out unless the whole gun was tipped over to the left.

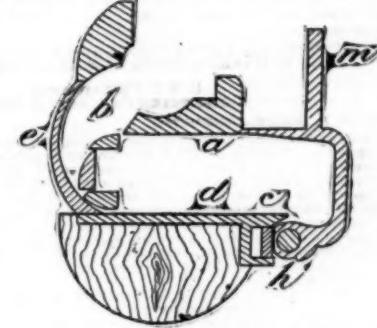

THE MAGAZINE GATE OPENED.

In the Board's gun the gate has a horizontal hinge below, and opens downwards, leaving a narrow opening with an inclined bottom through and over which the cartridges pass on to the floor proper of the magazine. This is shown in the illustrations accompanying this. These changes necessitated a number of others in the details of the magazine mechanism, but the essential plan of working is unchanged.

The bolt has no half-cock notch as on the Danish, but a safety lock rather similar to that on the German and Belgian arms is introduced instead.

The barrel cover of the Danish gun is omitted, the bands, sights, etc., being there on the barrel, as usual. The Board did not at all like these barrel covers. They got very hot and there was no way of cooling them, whereas a stream of water through a hot barrel would cool it. The gun adopted for our Service is much lighter than the Danish. It has also a shorter barrel and a slender one.

The clip, or packet, method of loading the magazine is not essential, a five cartridges held loosely in the hand can be poured into the magazine about as quickly as they can be dropped in from the holder. The packet does not enter the gun as in the German and Austrian arms. A flanged cartridge has been substituted for the rimless one.

THE MAGAZINE GATE CLOSED.

m is the thumb piece for opening and closing the gate, n the feed-plate pressing the cartridges toward the barrel until the last one is in the position b. The hinge is shown at h.

THE PEARY ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

WHEN the Kite with Civil Engr. Peary reached her dock in Philadelphia Sept. 23, an anxious throng of waiting relatives and friends of the members of both parties at once swarmed over the decks.

Just before Lieut. Peary left the vessel, Miss Matilda Verhooff, whose brother went out on the expedition and is supposed to have lost his life in a crevasse, boarded the Kite, and, going up to Lieut. Peary, said:

"Lieut. Peary, what have you done with John M. Verhooff?"

The lieutenant stood speechless for a minute and then said softly:

"I am very sorry that he is not on board."

"Is that all you have to say to me?" she asked, the tears starting in her eyes.

"Yes, that is all at present. I will have more to say later."

Thereupon Miss Verhooff's uncle, the Rev. A. N. Kergwin, sought to quiet her. "But I want Lieut. Peary to speak for himself."

The lieutenant then said: "I will meet you at 3 o'clock at the Lafayette Hotel, and then I will tell you all that I can."

After the interview at the Lafayette, Miss Verhooff continued to express her dissatisfaction, and said, among other things:

"Mr. Peary said that if my brother was alive he was a deserter, and that as he understood the law neither the Government nor the Academy of Natural Sciences was under any obligation to send out a searching party."

Wm. E. Meehan, the botanist of the relief party, said that the search for the mineralogist occupied seven days, and that every member of both expeditions, nine Esquimaux and the ship's crew, were engaged in it. Traces of Verhooff had been found on the sixth day, near a number of large crevasses into which there was every reason to believe that he had fallen.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE PHILADELPHIA.

U. S. S. PHILADELPHIA,
CHESAPEAKE BAY, Sept. 18, 1892.

To the Secretary of the Navy:

SIX: I regret very much having to report that during the sham battle yesterday, at Baltimore, Lieut. A. A. Ackerman was slightly injured and three of his gun's crew were seriously hurt by the premature explosion of a 6 inch cartridge. To guard against accidents and to insure the success of the demonstration, a written memorandum had been prepared and given to each divisional officer. Moreover, just before going to general quarters, a message was sent by a naval cadet to each officer in command of a gun division, directing him to allow no accumulation of ammunition on deck. This memorandum directed that guns be fired at intervals of 20 seconds, making an interval of two minutes between fires of the same gun; later they were to fire at will.

The cartridge in question was being put into the gun when it exploded, blowing a hole through the tarpaulin over the ward-room skylight and sending the unconsumed but burning grains of powder through the ammunition scuttle and skylight into the magazine passage and wardrobe, causing dense volumes of smoke to arise, giving the impression to every one in that part of the vessel that the ship was on fire or near the magazine. Indeed this was the report made to me on the bridge, and I at once ordered the red flag hauled down (the signal agreed upon for ceasing fire on both sides), the fire bell rung and the magazine flooded.

Fortunately, through the coolness and courage of Lieut. Fremont (the officer in charge of the powder magazine) and of Gunnery Mate H. A. Ellers, who bravely remained at his station and alone stamped and smothered the fire in the magazine, the danger was averted, rendering flooding unnecessary. Martin Felting, seaman, Charles V. Baker, 2d class apprentice, and Frederick E. Crossman, 1st class apprentice, all of whom were stationed at the 6-inch gun, were badly burned and bruised. They have to-day been transferred to the Naval Hospital at Norfolk. Others at the gun had their clothing injured.

Some good may possibly result from this accident by bringing about an improved method of supplying ammunition. At present the ammunition scuttles for serving the guns on the port and forecastle are directly in rear of the guns and the chutes lead almost or quite straight to the magazine passage, or where the magazine doors are open, as in action to the magazine itself. During an actual engagement an accident exactly similar to this might easily happen, or a shell might burst directly over these scuttles, and in either case particles of burning powder would doubtless drop into the magazine passage and create a panic possibly fatal to the ship, for the danger would not be imaginary but real.

Again, the magazine and passage are lined with inflammable woodwork and the magazine doors are made of light wood and are painted.

It seems to me that of all places in the ship these should be of material which cannot take fire, or else the woodwork should be thoroughly lined with tin, zinc or copper.

Very respectfully, etc.,

A. S. BARKER, Capt., U. S. N., comdg.

U. S. S. PHILADELPHIA,
CHESAPEAKE BAY, Sept. 17, 1892.

To Capt. A. S. Barker, commanding:

SIX: I have the honor to report that, as a consequence of the premature explosion of 33 lb. charge while gun No. 6, starboard, was being loaded during the attack on Fort Fisher to-day, a portion of said charge was blown through the ammunition scuttle in rear of the gun and wardrobe skylight into the ammunition chute leading from the ward room to the after magazine and shell room. A number of the grains and part of the cartridge bag continued burning on magazine floor, which necessitated a fire alarm, the smoke being too dense to allow the location and extent of the fire to be ascertained.

No damage was done, but I would respectfully call your attention to the relative positions of ammunition chutes, magazine and gun, which permit such an accident.

In connection with this accident, it gives me pleasure to call your notice to the conduct of H. A. Ellers (G. M.), who, while the burning particles were still coming down the chute into the magazine, remained at his post stamping hem out and trying to locate the cause.

Very respectfully, etc.,

J. C. FREMONT, commanding Powder Division.

The men wounded were: Martin Felting, seaman, burns of face, chest, forearms and hands; contusion of abdomen.

Charles V. Baker, 2d class apprentice, burns of head, face, chest, neck and arms; lacerated wounds of face and scalp, the latter of considerable extent.

F. E. Crossman, 1st class apprentice, burns of face, neck and forearm.

The officer in charge of the gun, Lieut. A. A. Ackerman, was likewise burned in face and hands, but less seriously than the others.

NAVAL WAR COLLEGE, 1892.

NEWPORT, R. I. Sept. 28.

The routine at the War College, as elaborated in the last week's ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, has been continued, although it was originally and confidently expected that some exercises with warships would be a part of the programme. The necessity for ships at La Guaya and for the different parades at this season, has broken the plan.

Commander Stockton finished his series of lectures on the future influence of the Nicaragua Canal, but it is understood that he is later to consider the strategic importance of the Pacific Islands.

Naval Constructor Taylor gave two very interesting talks on the methods to be employed in measuring speed, on the measured mile, and by the four hour run, touched upon the subject of endurance, and exhibited an instrument for recording speed revolutions of the ship's engines and time, during a mile run.

Medical Director Dear has commenced a set of lectures on Naval Hygiene, which prove very interesting to the class as they progress.

Lieutenant J. H. Sears is describing the operations on the coast of Chile during the revolution which overthrew the Moneda last year.

Lieutenant J. K. Cogswell has reported for duty in attendance on the lectures of the College, having been obtained by illness.

OFFICERS of the college.—Capt. A. T. Mahan, Comdr. C. H. Stockton, War College. The addresses of the officers in attendance are as follows: Comdr. M. L. Johnson, Aquidneck Hotel, Newport, R. I.; C. H. Davis, Jamestown, R. I.; O. F. Heyerman, Aquidneck Hotel, Newport, R. I.; Lieut.-Comdr. R. E. Impey, 28 Clark St., Newport, R. I.; L. C. Logan, Jamestown, R. I.; Lieuts. J. A. ASIATIC STATION.

REAR ADMIRAL HARMONY, under date of Sept. 1, makes the following report of changes of personnel of Asiatic Station: Lieut. C. A. Foster was detached from the Monocacy on Aug. 12 and ordered home. Active Boatswain D. Glynn reported for duty on board the Marion, Aug. 19. Ensign J. P. McGuinness was detached from the Alert on Aug. 21, and ordered to duty on board the Monocacy, where he reported Aug. 23. Naval Cadet E. T. Pollock was detached from the Lancaster on Aug. 21 and ordered to the Monocacy, where he reported for duty on Aug. 23. Lieut. F. H. LeFavor and Ensign G. W. Elliot, U. S. M. C., reported for duty on board the Lancaster Aug. 27. Boatswain D. Ward, of the Lancaster is still sick in the U. S. Hospital at Yokohama. The health of the Squadron is exceptionally good, and nothing has occurred on the station requiring special attention.

KRUPP'S EXHIBITION AT CHICAGO.

To the Editor of the Army and Navy Journal:

ENCLOSED please find a letter from Theo. N. Ely, Esq., that explains itself. The transportation of this gun is one of the most interesting problems of the Exposition and will receive much attention from publishers. Very truly yours,

A. C. BAKER, Lieut., U. S. N.,
Supt. Marine Division.

CHICAGO, ILL., Sept. 23, 1892.

ALTOONA, Sept. 21, 1892.
Lieut. A. C. Baker, Supt. Marine Division, Dept. Transportation Exhibits, World's Columbian Exposition:

MY DEAR SIR: In response to yours of the 19th inst., enclosing clipping from the last issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, in regard to the Krupp exhibit at the Fair, I would say that we have under construction a car for the transportation of the 124-ton gun which the Krupp people expect to send to the Exposition. In addition to this, we are also constructing a car to carry one of their 65-ton guns. We have promised to try to have the cars ready so that the guns can be moved from Sparrows' Point, near Baltimore, about the first of January. This is the latest information. You will see, therefore, that the clipping must be a mistake.

Yours truly,
(Signed) THEO. N. ELY, Gen. Supt. Motive Power,
Penn. R. R. Co.

This does not conflict with the statement in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. The manufacture of a car and its transportation over a railroad are not the same thing. Messrs. Theo. Prosser and Sons, the agents of the Krupps in this country, tell us that they are unable to say whether a 110-ton gun will or will not be sent to Chicago. It is too early to settle that question.—EDITOR JOURNAL.

THE N. Y. Tribune says: "W. K. Vanderbilt has, it is said on good authority, decided to build two steam yachts to take the place of his former magnificent steamer, the Alva. He will have a big yacht for deep-sea cruising and a small one for coasting. The small yacht will be used principally for carrying Mr. Vanderbilt and his friends between here and Newport, and will be of great speed. The big yacht is to be built in all respects as if she were a man-of-war. She will be something in the nature of a gunboat like the Petrel, or a despatch boat like the Dolphin. Several naval architects are thought to have prepared plans for these boats for Mr. Vanderbilt, although what plans, if any, he has decided on has not yet been made public. Among the designers is said to be St. Clare Byrne, of England. Mr. Byrne has designed many well-known large steam yachts, but has had no experience in designing naval vessels. It was St. Clare Byrne who drew the plans for the Alva."

VARIOUS NAVAL ITEMS.

It is understood that the full sized model of the battleship built for the Columbian Exposition will be turned over to the Naval Reserve of Chicago as an armory when the Exposition is over.

The question of ballooning has been brought into prominence in England by the recent Aldershot manoeuvres.

THE Foudroyant, which once flew Nelson's pennant, having been sold out of the service, it is proposed to raise a subscription to buy it back from the German firm now owning it.

RECENT experiments in Russia with horse shoes of aluminum show that they wear as well or better than iron, and they are much lighter.

The Concord arrived at Colon Sept. 27 from La Guaya. Has been ordered to Cartagena, will return to Colon about Oct. 1. After her chief engineer, who is en route to New York, reports, will probably return to LaGuaya. Capt. White reports everything tranquil at Colon.

THE French warship Hausard arrived at Provincetown, Mass., Sept. 26 from Portland and will await the arrival of the flagship Asturias from Boston, and then proceed to New York to take part in the Columbian parade.

THE new bronze propeller for the U. S. S. Thetis, designed by the Bureau of Steam Engineering, was recently cast at the Mare Island Navy-yard, and turned out a first class job, the blade surfaces being as smooth and free from blemishes as a piece of statuary. The work of finishing this propeller will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible, so the Thetis may be fitted for surveying duty.

THE French Minister of Marine has given instructions for the construction of another submarine boat, which is to be put in hand at Cherbourg, and will bear the name of Morse. In size it will be between the Gymnate and the Gustave Zedt.

THE London Nautical Magazine for September says: "Our Hydrographic Department issues general charts setting forth the equatorial limits of icebergs, but the invaluable Pilot Chart of the North Atlantic, issued every month by the United States Hydrographic Office, has greater exactness to recommend it to navigators crossing that stormy sea, who are supplied with copies thereof without charge. Shipmasters and officers of merchant ships under every flag make careful reports to Washington of the general atmospheric and other phenomena encountered at sea during their passage over various tracks; and the Pilot Chart, embodying the recorded experiences of many, is published at the beginning of each month to aid individual navigators in determining upon a correct course of action in the trying circumstances in which they are not infrequently placed. No fewer than 25,000 copies of these pilot charts were distributed gratuitously by the Washington authorities by means of branch offices at the large United States ports during the twelve months ended June 30, 1891. Comdr. Richardson Clover, U. S. N., the American hydrographer, is to be congratulated on the international utility of this accurate and well-arranged guide for North Atlantic navigators."

THE PROPOSED UNDRESS COAT.

To the Editor of the Army and Navy Journal:

The announcement in the JOURNAL that the proposed new undress coat will not be adopted until approved gives a faint hope that the delay will give time for reconsideration that will defeat the approval. The Army tired years ago of seeing rag baubles erected in the newspapers to be charged upon capes by Don Quixotes under the war cry of "Army reform," and the change in the head of the War Department was greeted with a profound sigh of relief from the Army proper. And it is still hoped that practical common sense will prevent this change for which there has been no demand by conditions or by those who do the duties of soldiers.

The present undress coat is plain, comfortable, becoming, durable and neat, and so suitable in almost every respect that there is a general desire that it should be—and it is—used for all duties.

The one proposed would be appropriate for a puppet, or a monkey accompanying a hand organ outfit, but for military service the dust at drill spoils its appearance, the braid and cloth do not fade in harmony, and soon becomes frayed out and shabby. It cannot be repaired by garrison tailors, and is expensive and unbecoming to many. It is an exaggeration of the worst faults of one tried years ago that experience proved entirely unsuitable for our service, and was superseded. It is not in harmony with our business-like tactics, and it is wholly un-American. Officers have to perform so many different kinds of duty that they want a blouse that will always look neat, though a little the worse from wear.

CAVALRY.

COLONEL GUY V. HENRY, U. S. A., left Fort Myer, Va., this week, to spend the month of October on leave.

LIEUTENANT CHAS. J. SYMONDS, 7th U. S. Cavalry, has taken charge of recruiting matters at Fort Sill, O. T.

COLONEL R. P. HUGHES, Inspector-General, made a thorough inspection of the troops and everything connected with them, at Governor's Island this week. As might be expected, the "headquarters" post was found to be in excellent condition, professionally and otherwise."

COMMANDER J. R. BARTLETT was before the Naval Examining Board on Thursday last. A few hours was sufficient to give him a "clean bill of health," both mentally and physically, and as the vacancy already exists he may be considered a full-fledged captain.

THERE is a well-defined rumor current that Col. Ruggles will be assigned to duty as senior assistant to Gen. Williams, and that Col. Brock will succeed him at Governor's Island.

The first of the twelve 13-inch guns for the battle ships is nearing completion at the Washington Navy Yard. The last of the jackets was slipped from the breach this week. In a few more weeks it will be on the proving grounds ready for trial. It will be mounted on the battle ship Oregon as soon as that vessel is ready to receive it.

In an obituary notice of the late Gen. Husted whose death is just reported, appears this anecdote, which will interest the members of the Naval Reserve: "He at one time boasted that he could pass any one bill which he chose. He made the boast in the presence of a number of his fellow Assemblymen, and a wager of the diners was made. Gen. Husted told them to choose the bill. They chose the one authorizing the organization of the Naval Reserve, that one seeming to be the most lifeless of all that had been introduced at the session. The next day Gen. Husted called up the bill, made a vigorous speech intimating that an appropriation of $50,000 was about to be made by Congress for the purpose, and carried the bill, and he afterward got Gov. Hill to sign it." The bill which established the National Rifle Association and inaugurated the present system of rifle instruction in this country owes its success to a similar happy legislative chance. When the Editor of the JOURNAL and Gen. Wingate went to Albany to secure the passage of this bill, which had no money in it, they found the members of the Legislature entirely indifferent to their arguments, with the exception of the late David W. Judd. His personal friendship for the two gentlemen advocating the bill, as well as his experience as a volunteer officer, prompted him to assist them all he could. It was the custom then, as we presume it is still, to allow each member of the Legislature to pass some one bill without question or opposition, Mr. Judd was induced to make the Rifle Association bill his pet measure. So it went, without opposition, through a Legislature which would have left it unnoticed upon the calendar, if it ever got there, so far as appreciation of the merits of the measure was concerned.

A LONDON correspondent of the N. Y. Herald, a "Member of Parliament," states that the general opinion as to the incapacity of Queen Victoria's sons who are in the army and navy is quite at fault, and says: "So far from being negligent or ignorant, all these persons have worked hard to fit themselves for their positions, and they are quite on a level point in technical proficiency with their brother officers. There is no better sailor, for instance, in the Royal Navy than the Duke of Edinburgh. Every branch of the service is familiar to him. The Duke of Connaught was a cadet at Woolwich when only sixteen, and from that day to this he has been performing military duties." Of the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, this correspondent says: "When he came not long ago before a select Parliamentary Committee to give his views on the condition of the army, he was at first looked upon with great suspicion by the radical members of the committee, who expected to see him bowled over at the first few questions. It soon became evident that there was no detail connected with the army, from the cost of the private soldier's boots to the actual strength of the entire British forces, which he had not at his fingers' ends. He knew his business thoroughly and answered the questions without hesitation. He was found to be absolutely right in all his facts, and proved beyond doubt that he took the deepest interest in the welfare of the rank and file, and wanted to see them treated more liberally in many respects, but had no power in the matter."

A MODERN SAILING SHIP.

THE London Nautical Magazine for September says: "The improvements which have been effected in sailing-ships during the past ten years have resulted not only in great economy in working, but also in comfort to the crews. This is very strikingly exemplified by the large cargo-carrying, and the comparatively small crews. One of the most completely equipped sailing-ships is the James Kerr, of Liverpool, which has just sailed for Uruguay. This vessel is built of steel, and is about 3,600 tons dead weight. She is rigged as a four-masted barque. All the spars are of steel, and there are double topgallant and topsail yards. The yards on all three masts are of the same relative size, so that a spar topgallant sail can be bent on either the fore, main or mizzen topgallant yard. Another feature is the employment of small capstans of a very ingenious make, whereby the heavy topsail yards, weighing some four tons apiece, can be hoisted by five men in about ten or eleven minutes. Formerly, setting the topsails required all hands at the halliards. Now it only takes one-third of the watch on deck. These capstans are not worked by handspikes, but are turned by winch handles; they have a fast and slow speed corresponding to a greater or less power exerted. They are manufactured by the American Ship Windlass Company, and are beyond question most useful machines for sailing ships. The James Kerr has a midship bridge deckhouse, which contains a magnificent saloon, with bathroom, office, sleeping and dining-rooms for the captain. A piano and harmonium are also provided. Adjoining the saloon are the officers' rooms, each officer having his own room, all of which are fitted up in the best mail steamer fashion. In the forepart of the saloon is the accommodation for the petty officers and apprentices, and this is of a very superior character. This system of housing the officers, petty officers, and apprentices with the captain is a most excellent one, as it is conducive to the maintenance of authority over an unruly crew. Forward, in a deck house, are the quarters of the sailors; there are proper lockers and shelves for each man, and outside, in a passage, a place for hanging wet clothes. A bathhouse and washhouse are built for their use."

THE ACCIDENT ON THE PHILADELPHIA.

We have refrained from alluding to the unfortunate accident on board the Philadelphia during the recent naval celebration in Baltimore harbor, until we could get a reliable statement of the facts. This is contained in the official reports which appear elsewhere. The casualties were confined to the more or less severe burning and bruising of an officer, Lieut. A. A. Ackerman, and three men of the gun's crew. The confinement of the fire to the immediate vicinity of the accident is ascribed by Capt. Barker to the coolness and courage of Lieut. Fremont, the officer in charge of the powder division and of Gunners-Mate H. A. Eilers, who bravely remaining at his station alone stamped out and smothered the fire in the magazine. A careful inquiry into the cause of the explosion has established beyond peradventure the fact that the accident was caused by the igniting of a charge in the six-inch gun by burning powder left from the previous round. The breach mechanism of our guns may be defective, but this accident does not serve to show it, as some critics have hastily assumed. The testimony of the gun's crew taken by a board of officers consisting of Lieut. J. B. Briggs, Lieut. J. C. Fremont and Naval Cadet H. J. Ziegemier, showed that the charge exploded immediately upon being inserted in the gun and before the breech was closed. Also, that the gun had not been sponged after the previous round. After taking the testimony of all the witnesses the conclusions reached by the Board are, "That there was an unusual amount of deposit left in the chamber by the unconfined charge, and that the sponging was inadequate, the marine sponge only being used." The deduction to be made from this accident, which might have been much more serious than it was, is very simple. The regulation requiring guns of this calibre to be sponged only once in three rounds should be at once amended to require a careful cleaning of the gun after each round, certainly when blank charges are being fired. But safer still would be the adoption of metallic shells for guns of this calibre, the same as in smaller calibre rapid fire guns. The ordinance authorities have drawn the line for metallic ammunition at 5-inch rapid fire guns because of the excessive cost of higher calibres. The question of cost, however, should not enter when human life is endangered, and no time should be lost in adopting the metallic ammunition for the 6-inch guns on occasions requiring rapidity of fire.

SECRETARY TRACY has very wisely given commanding officers the unrestricted right to employ pilots whenever in their judgment it may be necessary. Heretofore it has not been impossible to secure the services of a pilot, but for fear of official censure for asking the Navy Department for one, or of having accounts for such service disallowed, commanding officers have taken serious risks in piloting their own vessels in dangerous harbors. While most always successful, accidents have happened which probably would not have occurred had a local pilot been on board. It is good policy to induce officers in every way possible to become acquainted with all the dangers of our own coasts and harbors; and with the valuable aid of frequently corrected charts from the hydrographic office and coast survey, we believe officers generally are well posted on such matters, but at the same time it is not possible for officers to know of all the dangers of many of our harbors, which appear and disappear with most any change of the tide. Even pilots who are constantly patrolling certain localities are sometimes caught unawares. This being true of the pilots, what is to be expected of naval officers who are entering harbors after a three years' cruise, or after a tour of shore duty?

REAR ADMIRAL GHERARDI hoisted his flag on the Baltimore at San Francisco last week, as we announced, the JOURNAL of September 17 that he was to do. He is now at San Diego with that vessel and the Charleston participating in the celebration attending the 350th anniversary of the discovery of that point by Cabrillo. In a few days he will proceed south with his "special service squadron," stopping en route at all important ports in Mexico, Central and South America. He will be joined by the Boston at Acapulco, which is now en route from Honolulu, and by the Yorktown and San Francisco as he proceeds southward.

ADVERTISEMENTS inviting proposals, to be opened Dec. 15th, for the construction of the two ships authorized by the last Congress, were this week issued by Secretary Tracy. These vessels were described in the JOURNAL, Sept. 17th. Although the advertisement calls for a battle-ship of about 9,000 tons and armored cruiser of 8,000, the plans as heretofore described contemplate 11,500 tons and 9,500 tons respectively. The conditions prescribed are practically the same provided in previous advertisements for new ships. Two classes of bids will be received—one for hull and machinery on plans furnished by the Navy Department, and the other upon plans furnished by the bidder. Speed will be the basis of premium or penalties as usual. Sixteen knots is to be the speed fixed for the battleship, and twenty knots for the armored cruiser, $50,000 being the amount fixed for premium or penalty for each quarter of knot above or below the contract agreement. One important change over previous requirements which will be approved by bidder, is in regard to air-pressure in the fire room. Heretofore the contracts have prescribed that the air-pressure should not exceed one inch for the battleship and two and one-half inches for the New York. It is now prescribed that the average shall not exceed the amounts named. This has been done as a matter of justice to the contractors. It will operate to avoid loss of speed which would be occasioned by a plan of exceeding the maximum in pressure at any time during the trial. With this danger hovering over them, contractors are apt to keep below the limit during the entire speed trial and thus lose premiums for speed which they would probably gain by occasionally exceeding the air pressure during certain portions of the trial, and lowering it from time to time to keep within the average.

ENSIGN W. H. G. BULLARD, U. S. N., has made application for a two years' leave of absence with a view to taking a special course of instruction in electrical engineering at Johns Hopkins University. Heretofore the department has encouraged young officers in work of this character, believing that great good would ensue to the service by having available experts to take charge of the rapidly growing electrical plants of ships and "Navy-yards." The fact, however, that two out of the five officers who have taken this course have resigned their positions in the Navy to accept more lucrative employment with private electrical establishments is causing the authorities to hesitate about granting any more leaves of absence for the purpose named, and it is not improbable that Ensign Bullard's application may be denied. The young officers who have taken this special course in electrical engineering are Ensigns Duncan, Wilkes, Jayne, Shoemaker and Blanquin, all of whom have become experts in their specialty. The opinion of the Department would seem to be that it is best to keep the knowledge of young officers within controllable limits. They must be allowed to know just enough, but it will not do to let them learn too much lest they should find a more desirable field for their ambition than that offered by the Naval Service. But as all experience goes to show that they will come back again when their services are seriously needed, perhaps it will be just as well in the end to let them have all the knowledge they will hold. The danger that an epidemic of knowing too much will break out in the Navy is not so serious that it need to be considered. Give the youngsters a chance.

CONSUL GARDNER reports that the work of rally building in China, with labor at twenty cents a day, costs more than it would in England, owing to the poor physique of the laborers. A barrow that a European could easily trundle full is only half-filled, and it takes two Chinamen to push it at a very slow speed, with many stops for rest.

The Army and Navy Gazette says: "If any naval military man wanted further proof of the uselessness to this country for the purpose for which they were built of the so-called coast defence ships the recent manoeuvres should surely have supplied it." As a result of the inquiry into the the breakdown of the torpedo gunboat Sharpshooter, recently concluded at Devonport, the Admiralty have directed that a Court-martial is to be assembled with view to the circumstances being investigated in open court. The Gazette thinks that the result is likely to make still more public the lamentableunders which were made in the design and construction of these vessels. Captain Powell of the Lead, has been sentenced to be admonished for grounding that vessel. The Captain and Navigating Officer of the Forth are to be reprimanded for running this vessel on the Skelligs and those of the pollo have also been Court-martialed. Concerning the French naval manoeuvres, La France Militaire tells us the French operations, if they have demonstrated the necessity of torpedo boats for cutting, despatch, and surprise purposes, have shown that the importance cannot be attached to them which some naval writers have been disposed to accord. "The battleship, with its formidable artillery, soon to consist of quick-firing guns, its armor-plating, its gun-turrets, and its water-tight compartments, will always be the soul of the attack."

THE N. Y. Herald in summing up the great G.A.R. union last week in Washington well says: "The veterans represent the host of patriots who left their homes and went to the field for their country. Then the people are indebted for the blessings they enjoy, and also the assurance that the spirit of citizen soldiery who once guarded the nation will ever be trusted to defend it against attack in any quarter."

Herald correspondent telegraphs from Warsaw he learns "from an exceptionally well informed source" that the relations between Germany and Russia have suddenly "become painfully strained." This information has become, by contrast, painfully familiar!

The 350th anniversary of the discovery of the California coast was duly celebrated at San Diego Sept. 28 and 29. The U. S. troops on the Pacific Coast, under the direction of Generals Ruger and McCook, lent efficient aid in making the occasion a success.

On Sunday last the provision of law making fraudulent enlistment a military offence, punishable by Court-martial, went into effect. The law in question was a long time in coming, but the Army is to be congratulated that it has come at last and that the "rounders" and others who gain their way into the Army through the recruiting office by persistent lying will now be treated to a short shrift.

On Friday of this week, Sept. 30, the Military Academy graduates of this year were due at their respective stations, which, doubtless, has caused the company commanders interested to exclaim "for this relief much thanks."

WHAT is the matter with the British Army? A London despatch of Sept. 28 reports disaffection among the First Life Guards stationed at Windsor and says: Recently a non-commissioned officer of Squadron C found all the eighty saddles belonging to the squadron so badly cut that they were completely ruined. The men were ordered into their barracks and were there confined. Here they became uproarious, disturbing the whole neighborhood. They sang "Britons Never Shall be Slaves," popular music-hall songs, and the National Anthem. Between 9 and 10 P. M. the whole squadron went into the barrack yard, singing and yelling at the top of their voices. The uproar was continued until "Lights Out" was sounded, when silence was restored. A great number of the men have been placed under arrest. It is reported that Capt. Rawson, who commands the squadron, is very unpopular with his men, and is said to be alone responsible for the extra drills to which the men object, and to prevent which they cut their saddles. A parade of the troops was held the next day as usual. The only scene was when Capt. Rawson entered the barrack square in a cab. Then the whole regiment lined the balconies looking on the square and received him with loud hooting and hissing. Profuse abuse was heaped on him. The authorities at Windsor declare that the reports of the mutiny are greatly exaggerated. They admit, however, that the saddles of Squadron C were cut.

THE agonies of advertising are reaching a climax in London. Apparatus is being erected in the Strand to project advertisements on to the clouds. It has its military use too, according to the projector's circular. "The invention can be operated whenever there are clouds visible in the heavens, and during foggy weather almost any size or style of advertisement, including portraits, drawings, figures with or without colors; in fact, by its utility, the very heavens will become a great 'bulletin board,' announcing events, chronicling election or battle results, etc., etc. Brief announcements of the contents of the daily press, such as are now used, only immensely enlarged. Its application to commercial advertisements is simply without number, such as stock quotations, advices, racing results, etc., etc. Fancy soap, famous pills, electric belts, in immense letters at will. Its application to military and naval signaling is also very extended, and brings all Governments into the list of probable subscribers or purchasers. 'Cypher signaling on the clouds' in time of great battles will be one additional method for generals and admirals issuing their orders, receiving reports, etc., etc." If this thing continues there will be no refuge for the weary except in Symmes's Hole, if that is still in existence.

SINCE we published our paragraph about typhoid fever at Fort Myer a Washington despatch has appeared saying: "Out of 400 men in the garrison at Fort Myer on Arlington Heights, opposite the city of Washington, seventy-five are ill in the hospital. Half of this number are suffering from malarial fever, brought on by bad and insufficient water. Application has been made time and again for connection with the Washington supply, but, although the cost would be about $8,000 only, the plans have remained unacted upon at the War Department, and in the meantime the Government has lost almost the cost of the proposed connection in the loss of service of the eighty-three fever cases that have burdened the post in the past three years. The water supply of the fort consists entirely of a spring at the foot of the hill on which the post is situated. There are here dug three wells, which in the present state of drought are pumped down to the very dregs each day to supply the drinking water for the post. This would indicate negligence somewhere. The improvement of the water supply at Fort Myer should not be longer neglected. The matter has been brought officially to the attention of the War Department."

CAPTAIN ARTHUR MORRIS, U. S. Army, retired, died in New York City, September 26, of heart disease. Captain Morris was born in Virginia in 1843 and in March, 1862, was appointed from Maryland, a 2d Lieutenant of the 4th U. S. Artillery. He served with great credit during the War, being engaged in the battles of Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Savage Station, White Oak Swamp, Glendale, Malvern Hill, the second Bull Run, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and others. For his gallantry at White Oak Swamp and Antietam he received the brevets of 1st Lieutenant and Captain. After the War he served in various parts of the country, and was engaged in the Modoc and Nez Perce's campaigns. In 1877, he was promoted to Captain, and in 1887, was retired for disability incurred in the line of duty. The great-grandfather of the deceased officer was Lewis Morris, one of the four signers of the Declaration of Independence from the State of New York. His grandfather was Lieutenant William Morris, who served on the staff of General Anthony Wayne during the Revolution. His father, General William Walton Morris, served with distinction in the Seminole and Mexican Wars, and commanded the defences of Baltimore during a portion of the War of the Rebellion. Captain Morris was a member of the Loyal Legion, the Order of Cincinnati, and several other social organizations. He leaves a widow and a son. The funeral took place on Thursday, and was largely attended by comrades and friends of the deceased. The remains were taken to Oakland Cemetery, Yonkers, for interment.

THERE is serious question as to the accuracy of the bicycle record of a mile in 1 min. 56 3-5 sec., said to have been made on the kite-shaped track at Independence, Iowa, by Johnson. While the records have been out down rapidly of late with the introduction of the high-gearred safety machine and the pneumatic tire, a drop of more than eight second under the recently established record, by an unknown rider, challenges proof.

THOMAS NAST has commenced the publication of a journal bearing the title, "Th. Nast's Weekly". It is a paper of about the size of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, and is sold at the price of five cents. It is decidedly political in character, and as decidedly Republican. It is a clever paper, with numerous illustrations, all bearing the marks of Mr. Nast's characteristic style. Mr. Nast has always championed the Army and the Navy, and they will be glad to learn of the success of his new venture.

We hope that the Navy Department will send the naval cadets to New York to take part in the Columbian parade week after next. Participation in such a celebration is directly in the line of their education, and such an opportunity of bringing to the knowledge of the people the merits of the Academy ought not to be lost. The old saying, "out of sight, out of mind," is a true one, and the more we can bring the high character of the Services to the apprehension of the people the better. The Navy is a popular branch of the Service, and it should be kept so.

THERE is at last a reasonable prospect for the early appearance of a new book of Naval regulations. With the assistance of the Inspection Board, representatives of the several staff bureaus and revision by Commander John Schouler, the Bureau of Navigation has prepared for the approval of the Secretary of the Navy and for publication, a book of regulations, which, while containing some new features in relation to correspondence, accounts, etc., etc., is primarily a revision of the old regulations in accordance with general orders already issued. The book cannot appear too soon to please the average naval officer.

SECRETARY ELKINS returned to Washington Sept. 27, but owing to continued indisposition due to a bilious attack, he is devoting little time to official duties. Several military matters which it has supposed he would immediately attend to must therefore, still wait. A new superintendent of the Re-counting Service is to be selected, and a professor of modern languages. Changes in stations of Asst. Adjutants-General are to be decided also.

A WASHINGTON despatch says: "Maj. Gen. Schofield's decision not to send the cavalry of Fort Myer to New York City to participate in the Columbus Celebration on Oct. 12, will deprive the thousands of spectators of the sight of as handsome and soldierly a battalion of cavalry as ever crossed a saddle. With the gallant Henry in command, followed by Bowen of the 1st, Bell of the 7th, Fountain of the 8th, and Hughes of the 9th Cav., the Myer battalion is a notable one."

LIEUTENANT W. S. GOODWIN, 14th U. S. Infantry, will be a visitor to Topeka, Wash., this week.

RECENT DEATHS.

MAJOR-GENERAL JOHN POPE, U. S. A., retired, died Sept. 22, at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, near Sandusky, Ohio. The eminent services to his country of this distinguished officer are well summed up in the following order:

G. O. 70.

HQRS. A. A. G. O., September 26, 1892.

The following, received from the War Department, is published to the Army:

WAR DEPT., WASHINGTON, Sept. 26, 1892.

With feelings of profound regret the Acting Secretary of War announces to the Army the death of Maj.-Gen. John Pope, U. S. A., ret., which took place at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, near Sandusky, Ohio, on the night of the 23d inst.

Gen. Pope was born at Louisville, Kentucky, March 18, 1822. Entering the Military Academy, July 1, 1838, he was graduated July 1, 1842, and appointed brevet 2d Lieutenant Topographical Engineers. He served in Florida 1842 to 1844; was on the survey of the northeastern boundary line 1845 to 1846, and in the war with Mexico, participating in the several conflicts at Monterey, and in the battle of Buena Vista, for which he was brevetted 1st lieutenant and captain "for gallant and meritorious conduct;" promoted 2d lieutenant Topographical Engineers May 9, 1846; 1st lieutenant, March 3, 1853, and captain July 1, 1855, for fourteen years' continuous service, during which period he was employed on the survey of the Pacific Railroad route near the 32d parallel, and in the sinking of artesian wells to procure water on the arid Llano Estacado.

During the War of the Rebellion he served first as mustering officer at Chicago, but having been appointed brigadier general of volunteers, May 17, 1861, he was assigned to the command of the District of North Missouri July 17, to the District of Central Missouri Dec., 1861, to Feb. 18, 1862, where he commanded the retreat of the enemy to the Southern border. He was in command of the Army of the Mississippi in the movement on New Madrid, terminating in its occupation March 14, 1862, and in the capture of Island No. 10 in the Mississippi River April 8, 1862, for which he received at the close of the war the brevet of major general U. S. A. Promoted major general U. S. Vols. March 21, 1862, at the head of the Army of the Mississippi he was engaged in the advance upon and siege of Corinth April 22 to May 30, and in the subsequent pursuit of the enemy to Baldwyn June 10, 1862. Was called June 27, with the rank of brigadier general, U. S. A., of July 14, to the command of the Army of Virginia, which was engaged in the battle of Cedar Mountain, Aug. 9; Rappahannock Station and Beverly Ford, Aug. 23; Bristoe Station, Aug. 27; Thoroughfare Gap and Gainesville, Aug. 28; Groveton, Aug. 29; second Bull Run, Aug. 30, and Chantilly, Sept. 1. He was relieved from the command of the Army of Virginia Sept. 7, 1862, at his own request, and assigned to the command of the Dept. of the Northwest, which he held until Jan. 30, 1865; commanded the Military Division of the Missouri until June 27, 1865; Dept. of Missouri to Aug. 6, 1866; 3d Military District April 1, 1867, to Jan. 28, 1868; Dept. of the Lakes to April 30, 1870; Dept. of the Missouri to Nov. 1, 1883, and of the Division of the Pacific to March 16, 1886, when he retired from active service with the rank of major general, to which he had been promoted Oct. 26, 1882.

Gen. Pope's death closes an eminently useful, patriotic and distinguished career of nearly half a century in the service of his country. This service, covering two wars and a large diversity of other duties, coupled with his life long habit of study had stored his mind with a wealth and variety of knowledge and information on profession and very many other subjects rarely acquired, and made him a most valuable counselor on an extended range of subjects; his discriminating judgment and ready facility with voice and pen in using his knowledge gave him commanding influence during the larger portion of his career. The many acts prompted by his thoughtful and generous nature have endeared him to those with whom he was associated, and many such who survive him will ever tenderly cherish his memory.

Gen. Pope's funeral will take place in St. Louis, Mo., and the commanding officer of Jefferson Bks. will take the necessary action for proper and suitable military ceremonial to mark the respect in which his memory is held. Officers of the retired list are requested to wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

L. A. GRANT, Acting Secretary of War.

By command of Maj.-Gen. Schofield:

R. WILLIAMS, Adj't.-Gen.

The funeral took place at St. Louis, Sept. 26, with military honors as directed. The honorary pall bearers were composed of veteran officers, comrades of yore of the deceased General, and the Loyal Legion and G. A. R., of St. Louis, did their full meed of honor to the illustrious dead. The remains were interred in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Military critics may dispute as to General Pope's capacity as a general in command of armies in the field; none, however, can deny that he was a faithful servant of his country, a patriot, and a scholar, deserving of the fullest commendation, and a place in the hearts of his countrymen with those whose ultimate success make them the foremost of the leaders of their time.

PATRICK SARSFIELD GILMORE, of New York, first among the bandmasters of the world, died Sept. 24, at St. Louis, where he was fulfilling an engagement. His wife and daughter were with him when he died. The body was placed in the receiving vault of Calvary Cemetery Sept. 28. A military escort from the Twenty-second Regiment accompanied the procession, and fired a salute at the cemetery.

THE BARONESS von Grabow, wife of Baron von Grabow, formerly Consul-General for Germany in New York, died Sept. 7 in Berlin. She was a daughter of the late Gen. Robert C. Wood, Medical Dept., U. S. A., and a granddaughter of Zachary Taylor, late President of the United States.

GEORGE SCOTT, for many years wagon master in the employ of the Q. M. D., died at Pueblo on the 12th inst. while an inmate of the State Insane Asylum. He was discharged on the abandonment of Fort Lewis, Col. He leaves a widow and one child. He came from Fort Leavenworth in 1879 (?), taking part in Gen. Mackenzie's campaign, and in 1882 proceeded with his train of 130 animals to Fort Lewis. He also served during the War of the Rebellion in some Illinois regiment.

A COMPLIMENTARY dinner was tendered on Wednesday evening last at Bethlehem, Pa., by a number of prominent engineers and iron and steel manufacturers to the venerable general superintendent of the Bethlehem Iron Works, John Fritz, Esq., the occasion being the celebration of the 70th birthday of Mr. Fritz. Constructor T. D. Wilson, Engineer-in-Chief, Geo. W. Melville and Capt. W. M. Folger were among the Washington guests present on this happy occasion.

QUESTIONS AS TO THEIR INTERPRETATION ANSWERED.
See previous answers, pages 352, 358, 418, 430, 455, 468, 487, 508, 545, 561, 579, 588, 617, 638, 649, 667, 686, 750, 884, 885, last volume; 42.

No. 197. "E. T. H."

Par. 739. The battalion commander should have his battalion in column of companies at full distance when the inspecting officer first approaches the battalion to inspect it. No salute is prescribed.

Par. 700. Each battalion is marched off by itself to its own parade and dismissed, unless otherwise ordered by the colonel.

No. 198. "F. F. G."

Par. 714. The position of the sergeant major when he causes the guard to count fours is not prescribed.

Par. 718. Details are marched out according to the principles prescribed in the School of the Soldier, or large enough, by using fours according to convenience; there is no further restriction. In determining the number of men for guard no deduction is made for men who have marched on or off.

No. 199. "P. C. T."

1. The company marching in line, pieces at the port, company right is executed as prescribed for the squad, Par. 140. Each man halts with his piece at the port and dresses to the right.

2. Carry from the secure should not be reduced to motions or cadence any more than in executing the secure from the carry; the same applies to left shoulder, etc.

3. Yes; it is proper to give "Cease Firing, Load," when firing by company.

SCHOOL OF THE BATTERY—LIGHT ARTILLERY DRILL.

Par. 295. What is meant by the words "maintain their relative positions?" Do the chiefs of subdivisions change positions or merely face about with the rest of the battery?

ANS.—The chiefs of subdivisions simply face about at the commands About, Face, or execute To the rear, MARCH, if that command be given.

CAVALRY DRILL REGULATIONS.

"W."

1. Do the Drill Regulations authorize the rallying of a command while it is marching to the rear?

ANS.—No. See Par. 813. "The rally should be made on the line or in advance of it" and "the troopers * * * form quickly faced to the front."

2. Do the Drill Regulations authorize the assembling of a command while it is marching to the rear?

ANS.—No. See Par. 814. Last clause says "the corporal and base troopers march forward, the other troopers gain their positions," etc.

3. Do the Drill Regulations authorize the forming of a line of squads or skirmishers by a command while it is marching to the rear?

ANS.—See Par. 783, 786 and 797, all of which presume that the line or troops are faced in the direction of the enemy before the deployment. This is intended to give the men and leaders a more intelligent view of what is expected of them.

The Cavalry Drill Regulations do not prohibit the commands for the execution of the above movements while marching to the rear in so many words, but the presumption in each case is that the men are faced toward the enemy and is based on the results of experience in modern warfare. The possible exception might be of a rear guard. This, then, "becomes a condition, not a theory."

Fort Riley.

1. The troop in extended order, moving to the rear, away from the "supposed" enemy, the command Right turn is given; which is then the front and rear?

ANS.—It is presumed that the object of the movement is to meet a movement of the "supposed" enemy, so as to conform to the conditions of Par. 150 upon halting, and is part of the movement, "to the rear."

2. If the enemy is still "supposed" to be in the original position, would this not be a flank move in the face of an enemy?

ANS.—Not in the sense usually given to that phrase, but it would be a senseless, unnecessary movement under the condition given.

3. "Moving forward in extended order, the command By the right flank is twice given, should the troopers on halting face to the original front?"

ANS.—Yes. See Par. 783, 786 and 812.

In the execution of movements under the first part of the second sentence of Par. 782, a strict application of Par. 783 is not expected in teaching "the mechanism of the movements."

Fort Robinson.

1. "A troop on drill having been halted three yards from the line, preparatory to dressing up to it, and some of the files having opened out, due to any cause, when the command to dress up to the line is given, do the files that have opened out move straight forward to their places on the line without closing, or do they oblique toward the point of rest as they dress up in order to close these intervals?"

ANS.—There is no objection to obliquing while approaching the line, but having arrived on the line the troopers should move forward or backward only, "without passing." See Par. 475.

In squadron drill, it is prescribed that troops shall be "halted near the line," not three yards from the line; the object of this provision was to secure prompt alignment by a forward movement only by the troopers.

2. Par. 562. Front into line, at a trot or gallop, is executed as explained in the last clause of Par. 561; the captain does not give command for increased gait.

The Naval Reserves will lead, followed by the foreign ships of war and then by our own. They will pass through the Narrows, while national salutes are being fired from the guns of Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth, up into the bay, where they will steam between rows of gayly decked merchant vessels. A PARIS despatch says that Count Augustus Bismarck and Count Bismarck Bohlen have resigned their posts in the German Army owing to Emperor William's alleged offensive remarks about the Bismarck family.

MAJOR FUKUSHIMA, the Japanese officer who undertook to ride from Berlin to Japan, has reported his arrival in Semipolatinsk, on the Irtysh River in Western Siberia. His journey is not yet half accomplished. From his last station it is over 400 miles to the Mongolian frontier, and thence it is to ride over the Gobi, Irkutsk and other deserts 1,400 miles more. Winter, with heavy snowstorms will probably set in before he reaches his destination.

THE STATE TROOPS

THE RHODE ISLAND NAVAL MILITIA.

The Naval Militia company of Bristol, R. I., enjoyed four days' outing on board the cruiser Philadelphia from Sept. 21 to 24 inclusive. The war vessel was anchored off Ft. Adams, Newport harbor, and the young defenders were brought from Bristol each day on the tug Fortune, and were returned each evening. The company under the command of Lt. Hodgkinson had no previous exercise on board ship, so that it was a new experience for them. Lieut. W. C. Cowles, U. S. N., was present as the Navy Department representative. The programme carried out was as follows:

Sept. 21. A. M.—Practical instruction at the main and secondary batteries, and in the powder division, the three divisions alternating. P. M.—Great gun drill and at general quarters. Lts. Hosley, Fremont and Lansdale having charge of the exercise. Practical instruction in the electric plant, the machinery, protective decks, search lights, conning tower, etc. Sept. 22. A. M.—Philadelphia underway, outside. Target practice with main battery; 6 shots at 1,200 yds.; no hits. Target practice with secondary battery; 32 shots; 8 hits. P. On Sept. 24, P. M., the Governor of Rhode Island, the Lieutenant Governor, the Governor's staff and ladies went on board the Philadelphia, where they were received with usual honors by Capt. Barker. The crew and militia were assembled at quarters, and a drill at the 6-in. guns was given, to show the familiarity of the militia with their duties at the battery, after which the State officials were shown about the ship. The customary salute of 11 guns was fired upon the departure of the Governor, who embarked on board the Fortune, accompanied by the militia. The Philadelphia immediately departed for New York.

THE CREEDMOOR MATCHES.

The matches at Creedmoor, L. I., on September 28, 1892, for the State and Brigade Trophies, were the most interesting and best contested competitions that have taken place on the range in some years. The day was a very pleasant one with little or no wind to bother the shooters. Governor Flower, accompanied by Adjutant-General Porter, General Varian, General McGrath, General Earle, and Colonel Monroe of his staff, was on the ground before 10 A. M., and remained until the contests were ended. The Governor was much interested in the shooting, and in the range in general, which he declared was a valuable piece of property. The Governor, at the conclusion of the shooting, complimented the Guardsmen on their excellent record, and promised to aid in getting the necessary funds from the Legislature to make needed repairs, and put the range in proper order. He also promised to donate a prize for competition next year.

The shooting at the 200 yards range began a few minutes after 10 o'clock, and was continued without delay. General B. M. Whitlock, assisted by Col. G. F. Hamlin and Major D. Crooker, ably supervising the details.

There were seven teams on the ground, which were captained as follows: 7th, Capt. W. H. Palmer; 12th, Capt. John Macauley; 13th, Capt. D. H. Babcock; 23d, Capt. M. E. Burton; 25d, Capt. H. C. Brown; 71st, Capt. Edward Gould, and 69th, Major E. Duffy.

The teams from the 7th, 13th, 23d, and 71st Regiments used the Buffington Sight, while the 12th, 22d, and 69th Regiments used the wind gauge sight.

The team from the 7th Regt. proved a victor in both contests, winning the 1st Brigade match with a lead of 60 points, scoring an aggregate of 957 out of a possible 1,200 points.

The State match it won with a score of 984 points, being 18 points ahead of their next competitor, the 12th Regt. team.

The 23d Regiment team won the match for the 2d Brigade trophy, scoring 952 points against 928, made by the team from the 13th Rgt. regiment.

Every one of the teams shot remarkably well, especially considering the interruptions in their practice incident to service at Buffalo, and while all deserve credit, the team from the 71st Regiment is especially entitled to it. This regiment has not had a team on the range for some ten years, and the present team assembled this year for the first time. It made a most commendable showing, and in the Brigade Match at the 600 yards range it had two points the better of the 7th Regiment team at this range. The team from the 12th Regiment made a gallant struggle for first place, and against which at first seemed almost a forlorn hope. It won second place in each match, however. The 69th Regiment team shot the quickest of any on the range. They started in excellent shape, and if a little more time had been taken better results would have followed. In the first stage of the Brigade Match they were 13 points ahead of the 12th Regiment team and 19 behind the 7th. The following are the scores of each team in the State Match arranged in order of merit. Each team consisted of 12 men each, who fired five shots per man at 200, 300, 500 and 600 yards. The conditions of each match were the same:

THE HOMESTEAD DIFFICULTIES.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26, 1892.

THERE has been little of interest to the readers of the Journal to chronicle from Homestead during the past three weeks. That the strike at the Carnegie plant is lost by the Amalgamated Association there is now hardly any doubt. Work in all departments of the great mill is progressing smoothly, and the quality of the work now being turned out by the non-unionists can with truth be stated as good as has ever been turned out by the plant. Saturday was pay day in the mills. Nearly $60,000 was given out. When the plant was running full about $80,000 was the usual amount distributed on pay day. The amount paid on Saturday gladdens the hearts of the business portion of the borough, and many who have been waiting for the sheriff to take away their little all will now be able to again get on their feet. There are about 2,500 men now in the mills, and the officials claim they can increase this number to 1,000 more at any time they see proper. Hugh O'Donnell, one of the general officers of the Amalgamated Association, who was charged with murder by the secretary of the Carnegie Company, was on Saturday refused to be admitted to bail by Judge Porter. All the troops but one regiment, the 16th, have been withdrawn from the borough of Homestead. It was the intention to have withdrawn this last regiment on Saturday, but the disposition shown by the strikers during the week showed plainly that the regiment was still badly needed in the town. When it became known early in the week that it was decided to take the regiment away from Homestead, a strong petition was sent to Gov. Pattison against such action, who in reply to it sent his adjutant-general to this city last Friday morning. In the afternoon he was met at the Duquesne Club by General Wiley, Col. McKibben and Mr. H. C. Frick. General Wiley clearly set forth the necessity for a further retention of the regiment, and Adjutant-General Greenland at the close of the conference was satisfied that it would be a military blunder to remove the regiment for the present. However, it is more than probable that four of the eight companies comprising the regiment will be sent to their homes by the end of the week, and the other four companies kept at Homestead until snow flies if it is found necessary. The removal of the last of the troops all depends upon the strikers themselves. The lame trouble was before the Grand Jury last week and true bills were found against Col. A. L. Hawking, Lieut.-Col. J. B. R. Streator and Asst. Surg. Grimm. I had a talk on Saturday with one of lame attorneys, but he was unable to say when the cases would be called for trial. He has settled to his own satisfaction the conviction of all the defendants. The legal fight in the cases promise to be of a very interesting nature. The attorney stated that the legality of the Governor's order which sent the troops into Homestead would be questioned, and that the Supreme Court of this State will be called upon for a decision. The outcome of the trials is being anxiously awaited by both soldiers and civilians in this country.

The 2d Brigade marksmen have this year completely surrounded themselves with glory for the first time in the history of the brigade. The rifle team from the 16th Regiment particularly are covered with laurel and filled to overflowing with laudations. At the State shoot at Mt. Gretna they won the regimental prize. In the brigade match their high scores brought home with them the State trophy, and in the Interstate shoot at Sea Girt, N. J., they again walked off with the honors. As a fitting close to their march of triumph, their regiment met them on their arrival at Homestead station, escorted them through the town, and to the quarters of their colonel, where they were dismissed, after listening to one of Col. Huling's most brilliant efforts. While it has not yet been officially announced, it can, however, be truthfully stated that the division will encamp in Chicago next fall. Before the time of departure arrives, the division will receive new great-coats, canteens, haversacks, etc.

A standard revolver for officers will shortly be adopted. Col. Osthaus, General Inspector of Rifle Practice, having so recommended to the adjutant-general.

TEXAS VOLUNTEER GUARD.

To the Editor of the Army and Navy Journal:

The copy of General (Court-martial) Order No. 49, from Adjutant-General's Office, Texas, dated Sept. 1, 1892, inclosed, in the case of Capt. Chas. S. Gainer, late of the Bryan Light Infantry, probably explains the animus of the despatch, as follows:

A despatch from Bryan, Tex., Aug. 20 says: "The split up of the State Militia has started, the Bryan Light Infantry having disbanded and returned its commission. Capt. C. S. Gainer, in his letter to Adjt.-Gen. Mabry, says the whole Texas Volunteer Guard is going to pieces. He charges the superior officers with favoritism and conduct not becoming soldiers or gentlemen in favoring certain companies in the encampment decisions, assailing the character of officers and men and denying them a hearing. Politics has entered the ranks of the militia."

The despatch is false throughout, with an exception, namely, that the Bryan Light Infantry and the Campbell Guards are the only two companies that have disbanded and returned their commissions, out of 65 companies, troops and batteries, taking part in the annual encampment of 1892. This does not look as if the "whole Texas Volunteer Guard is going to pieces." Four companies were mustered out by General Orders for not attending the encampment of 1892, but six new companies have been organized since July last, and applications for authority to organize are refused every day by the Adjutant General, because of not having at his disposal the necessary arms and accoutrements. I can state positively, and with truthfulness, that the Texas Volunteer Guard was never in better condition than it is to-day; that politics has not entered the ranks of the militia, as can be abundantly proved; that the superior officers have not favored certain companies at the encampment, and, finally, that the character of officers and men has been assailed, and a hearing denied them, vide Capt. Gainer's case of court-martial, and that of other officers and men. "ONE WHO KNOWS."

WISCONSIN.

LIEUT. COL. AUER under date of Sept. 14 announces he has assumed command as Lieut.-colonel of the 4th Infantry, W. N. G. The regimental commander solicits the support of the field, staff, rank and file of the organization. A rifle competition for company teams from the 4th Infantry will be held at the regimental rifle range (county line) on Sunday, Oct. 2, the teams to consist of six men each. The "Stanley and Camp Company Trophy" will be awarded to the company team making the highest aggregate score. To the competitor making the highest individual aggregate score the "Best Shot Medal" will be presented. Firing will commence at 8:30 A. M. and will consist of ten shots each at 200, 300 and 600 yards, and one skirmish run of twenty shots. Each company will furnish its own ammunition, etc. The following officers are detailed for duty for this competition: Officer in charge, Capt. H. S. Fuller. Range officers—Lieuts. A. B. Cambier, J. F. Manion, Frank A. Sullivan and Ew. T. Hartmann.

The proceedings of the eleventh annual convention of officers of the Wisconsin National Guard, held at Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 10-11, 1892, have just been issued in neat pamphlet form. Among other things, the report publishes the following interesting papers: The New Drill Regulations and National Guard Training, by Capt. Moses Harris, 1st Cav.; Chile—Its Resources, Army and Navy, Plan for Conquest, by Capt. J. B. Kerr, 5th Cav.; Reminiscences, by Capt. Philip Reade; Hasty Instructions Under Modern Conditions of Warfare, by Lieut. Henry E. Waterman, U. S. Army; Department of Small Arms Practice, from a Civilian Standpoint, by Theo. W. Goldin; Sons of Veterans Organizations, by Dr. E. W. Krackowizer; Note on Ten Years' Service With the Wisconsin Guards, by Col. Chas. King.

COLUMBUS PARADE NOTES.

GOVERNOR ABNET and his staff, of New Jersey, will parade on the occasion of the Columbian ceremonies in New York City, October 12, escorted by the Essex Troop, Brevet Major-General William J. Sewell will command the Provisional Brigade, which will parade on that occasion. This Brigade is made up of a detail of one regiment from the First and one from the Second Brigade. From the First Brigade the First Regiment is detailed, and from the Second Brigade the Third Regiment is detailed. Gatling Gun Co. B will also be a part of the Provisional Brigade.

There will be no troops from Vermont.

Adjutant-General Embree announces that Brigadier-General George Haven, commanding the Brigade of Connecticut National Guard, will assemble the Infantry organizations of his command in the City of New York, at 7 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, October 12, 1892, for the purpose of participating in the military parade that day to celebrate the discovery of America. Brig.-Gen. William B. Rudd, Quartermaster-General of the State, is charged with the transportation of the companies and regiments. Brig.-Gen. Eugene S. Ross, Commissary-General of the State, is charged with the subsistence of the troops during this tour of duty. The command have volunteered to make this parade without pay. The General Staff will report to the Adjutant General in full uniform, mounted, at 7 o'clock A. M., on day of parade. General headquarters will be at the Hotel Brunswick.

Capt. S. E. Blunt, Ord. Dept., U. S. A., has been ordered to assist in the organization of the military parade in New York Oct. 12.

It is not probable that any troops from Rhode Island will be able to attend the celebration in New York, as the Legislature has made no appropriation therefor, and the militia appropriation is exhausted.

Gov. Russell and staff of Massachusetts will represent that State in the parade of Oct. 12 in New York. No troops will accompany them.

The State of Maine will not be represented in the parade. Pennsylvania will parade her entire First Brigade, consisting of the 1st, 2d, 3d, and 6th Regiment, State Fenobles, and City Troop.

VARIOUS.

The report of Brig.-Gen. T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector-General of Vermont, for the years 1891-92, is at hand.

Gen. James W. Husted, for many years a Republican leader in the State of New York, died Sept. 25, at Peekskill, N. Y., after a long illness. In 1873 he was appointed major-general, 5th Division, New York National Guard.

The valuable report of Major Volkmar on the Pennsylvania militia has been published in pamphlet form by the State authorities and is being generally distributed among the troops. It will not be published by the War Department.

The executive committee of the 12th N. Y. Rifle Club have decided to hold competitions at the armory for the Riker trophy on the following dates: Oct. 31, Nov. 28 and Dec. 28, 1892; Jan. 26, Feb. 24, March 27 and April 25, 1893. A new 40 prize match will be arranged, and as the competitions for the Massey medals resulted so favorably last year, a similar competition will be arranged for this season.

Col. Harry Michell, 14th N. Y., says: "Battalion commanders will direct that the several companies of their command shall resume drill during the first week of October, 1892, and under such regulations as will best promote efficiency and thoroughness in its character, shall be adopted and maintained in both battalions. No orders shall be issued to the battalions until after consultation with the colonel commanding, and indorsed by him."

Lieut.-Col. Geo. Moore Smith, of the 7th N. Y., who is at present in command of the regiment during the absence of Colonel Appleton on leave, directs that company drills commence Oct. 1, 1892, and continue until April 1, 1893. Colonel Smith, among other things, calls attention to the necessity of a careful and faithful performance of all duty, and particularly to the education and preparation of the recruit in the duties and drill of the soldier. The system of instruction is laid down and all members of the regiment are directed to practice with the rifle in the armory range. The officers and men who volunteered for service at the camp of instruction the past season are thanked for their earnest and successful work.

FORT MCINTOSH, TEXAS.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1892.

Our quiet little post has changed in appearance very much to the better for the last few days, all the grass, weeds and chaparral having been cut down in the immediate vicinity, and improvements in regard to the sanitary condition of the garrison are being made.

1st Lieut. F. O. Johnson, 3d Cav., has been relieved as Regimental Quartermaster and 1st Lieut. John T. Knight, 3d Cav., has been appointed in Lieut. Johnson's place. The latter, it is understood, may go on recruiting service to Jefferson Barracks, Mo. Lieut. Knight is expected to arrive here from Ft. Ringgold about Sunday.

Capt. F. H. Hardie, 2d Lieut. J. McI. Carter, and 29 enlisted men of Troop G, 3d Cavalry, left here last Monday for Carrizo, Texas, to aid the civil authorities in dispersing or capturing a band of 80 armed Mexicans, supposed to be Revolutionists. Your correspondent, however, does not believe that their intentions are hostile ones against our sister republic, and that Garza has no hand in it whatever. The border seems to be peaceful and the inhabitants contented, as the last rains have made them look hopeful for a better future. Grass is plenty and good and the cattle in fine condition.

Private Gabriel R. Paul, late Troop G, 3d Cavalry, who died from congestive chills at Galveston, Texas, on the 9th inst., and was buried at the National Cemetery at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, was the son of an Army officer, and joined Troop G, 3d Cavalry, in August, 1891. The deceased was on special recruiting service at the time of his death, and his illness was of very brief duration. His early parting from our midst was very much regretted by his comrades, as he made many friends during the short time he was in the troop. Deceased joined the Army in order to secure a commission as an officer, and no doubt, with his education and ambition, would have seen his hopes rewarded if not God called him to His great army above us. May his rest be peaceful.

Forty-five recruits have been assigned to the 3d Cavalry, and are most badly needed, as it is astonishing what a number of men take advantage of the provisions of G. O. 80, series 1890, A. G. O.

Chief Trumpeter Cheek, 3d Cavalry, rejoined from a few months' furlough last week. Mrs. Cheek is still at San Antonio, and is expected to arrive here in a few days.

The old bakery is being refitted and will be occupied as post headquarters. The building now used for this purpose will, it is understood, be used as an amusement and dancing room, for which the post commander, Maj. George A. Purington, 3d Cavalry, deserves much credit, as this is, although regimental headquarters, about the only post in Texas, where nothing is provided for the amusement of the enlisted men. Why should not the members of this garrison have their entertainments as well as in other posts?

FORT RILEY, KAS.

SEPTEMBER 25, 1892.

On the evening of Sept. 19 the 7th Cavalry band tendered Miss Tiny Kittredge a farewell serenade, after which the greater part of the garrison were invited by Miss Schenck to partake of a very nice supper. Dancing was indulged in and the evening passed pleasantly. Among those present were Gen. Forsyth, Major Randolph, Capt. Hale, Adj't. and Mrs. Bell, Miss Grimes, Miss Parker, Miss Haywood, Miss Baldwin, Lieuts. Hunter, Krayenbuhl, Wilson, Whipple, Fenton, Selah Tompkins, Corcoran, Fleming, Rice and Drs. Freeland and Keefer.

Miss Kittredge left the following morning for New Orleans, a large Riley contingent being at the depot to bid her farewell. Miss Kittredge spent the summer with Lieut. Schenck's family and was a popular young lady.

After the hop Friday evening Mrs. Gresham invited a few friends to an informal lunch in honor of her guest, Miss Hattie Young, of Louisville. Those present were Miss Baldwin, Miss Schenck, Miss Young, Lieuts. Wilson, Whipple, Krayenbuhl, Hunter, and Dr. Frank Keefer.

Tuesday night of last week a very handsome dinner was given by Major and Mrs. Hoff. The guests were Gen. Forsyth, Major Randolph, Major Waitside, Capt. and Mrs. Garlington, Lieut. and Mrs. Nicholson, Adj't. and Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Garlington, senior.

Miss Forsyth returned last week from a month's visit to Omaha, bringing with her her sister, Mrs. Dr. Baché and Mrs. Baché.

Miss Jennings, of Fall River, Mass., is expected this week to be the guest of Miss Anna Baldwin.

Lieuts. "Tommy" Tompkins, Fonton, Slocum and Capt. Garlington, of the 7th Cavalry, left Friday for Fort Sheridan to act as "sand rats" on the team to meet there.

"CORRESPONDENCE."

FORT D. A. RUSSELL, WYO.

The troops left Fort D. A. Russell Sept. 13 for the annual practice march. The battalions will alternately lead. The regimental column and the companies in each battalion will likewise lead the battalion columns on the daily marches. The battalion commanders and adjutants will be mounted. Major Erbert will perform the duties of lieutenant-colonel. Capt. W. M. Van Horn will command the first battalion and Capt. C. E. Bennett the second battalion.

Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

Now that the autumn season has arrived, merriment in Loyal Legion circles are commencing to be lively and will continue so throughout the winter. The investiture of officers of the New York Commandery elected May 4 last, will take place at Delmonico's, New York City, Oct. 5. Several candidates for membership will be balloted for on this occasion, including Mr. Palermo Tecumseh Sherman, young son of the late Gen. Sherman. Col. George Blas Sanford, U. S. A., retired, has been transferred to the New York Commandery from Kansas. The Headquarters of the Commandery have been established at No. 140 Nassau street, and is open daily for the use of the library and inspection of the Commandery albums, robes, etc.

The eighth annual meeting of the Commandery-in-Chief will be held at the hall of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 10 A. M.

ELIZABETHTON.

Largest Shoe Factory in the South.

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., July 14.

Ground was broken here yesterday for the location of the largest shoe factory in the South. Mrs. Robert P. Porter, wife of President Porter, of the Co-operative Town Company, turned the first spadeful of earth. One hundred operatives are already here. The capital stock of the concern is $100,000, and 150 skilled laborers will be employed at the start. The contract calls for the completion of the building by September 15. A steam brick-making plant of large capacity and a metal and wood working industry, with a capital stock of $30,000, have also closed contracts. These results are the outcome of negotiations carried through successfully by the Co-operative Town Company.

ORDNANCE NOTES.

1st Lieut. H. K. White, U. S. M. C., will, it is understood, soon be in a position to submit his recently invented improvements in small arms to the crucial test of actual service. Those officers of the Navy and Marine Corps who have had opportunity for examination of the new gun speak in high terms of its efficiency and durability.

Engineer says: "In 1888, when it became evident that something had yet to be done to render disappearing guns thoroughly efficient, Capt. Galopin set himself the task of designing a turret in which the total duration of movement should not be more than 6 sec., at the same time that the whole operation should be performed without the aid of motive power. Such a turret has been constructed at Creusot to the order of the French Government. It weighs 150 tons, and is easily manipulated by hand power. A commission was lately appointed to experiment with this new turret, and to ascertain its efficiency as an engine of war. The turret was mounted upon a solid structure of masonry, and was armed with two guns of 155 mm. The results of the experiments are reported to be in every way satisfactory. The operation of raising, firing the two guns, and lowering, only occupied 4 1/2 sec., and it was found possible to repeat this discharge every minute. Precautions have been taken to insure free ventilation without at the same time allowing any admission of gases caused by explosions of the enemies' projectiles. As the result of these experiments Messrs. Schneider are likely to have placed with them a number of orders for this new class of war material, and in view of the heavy contracts that are now in hand for cupolas and guns, it is evident that the enormous works at Creusot will be in full activity for some years to come."

The French press continues to dwell on the success of French ordnance. Le Matin publishes an article in which it is stated that Krupp has failed to keep up the prestige which unquestionably belonged to his works some years since. It appears that a report was recently circulated that Krupp had sent engineers to Ekaterinoslaw to make arrangements for the erection of Russian ordnance factories. This, it is stated, has been ascertained to be wholly untrue, and it is added that both Krupp's reputation and the total amount of work performed at Essen have diminished lately. The Russians make their own ordnance now at Oboukhov, Poutilow, Perm and Kreil, and obtain guns also from the principal French makers. Experience has shown that while Krupp long excelled in the large masses of steel employed in ordnance, latterly better steel has been made both in France and England. The evils of the wedge breech-closing system, both as to unnecessary weight and also weakness, have been recognized, and not long since some Krupp guns delivered in Russia yielded under a pressure of 2,250 atmospheres per square centimetre. Since 1885 the manufacture of war material in France has caused that in Germany to decline. Canet guns in Greece, Japan and elsewhere, have replaced those of Krupp, and still more those of Armstrong. The de Bange obturator has been adopted in Russia, England and America. Krupp even has made guns with the de Bange obturator by special request for Norway. Creusot has also been manufacturing ordnance. It is further stated that the Krupp quick-fire guns adopted in Germany are feeble and inferior to those which the French navy will have. The great development of private, as well as government ordnance factories in France, allows her to regard the future with confidence.—Engineer.

THE MARINE CORPS.

THE new uniform regulations went into effect Sept. 15 and have excited general dissatisfaction. Scarcely an item of the many changes meets with approval. The hybrid character of this corps, almost forgotten, has been made ever apparent by a uniform shorn of its distinctive character and converted into a "combination suit"—half naval and half military. The expense of an outfit, already very great, has been increased, and that also causes complaint.

The work of providing the men with civilized bedding is slowly progressing and in a few years more the time-honored straw-litters will pass into history.

Applications for the discharge of enlisted men because of intemperate and unreliable habits are being returned to commanding officers disapproved. Such cases could be dealt with by summary court-martial.

The Pacific White Squadron will bring East as many men as possible who enlisted on the Atlantic coast, thereby effecting a considerable saving in transportation. There are about 160 marines in that squadron, the guard of the Boston being reported as conspicuous for military esprit and proficiency.

The assignment of Col. James Forney to command the Brooklyn Barracks is looked for about Nov. 1.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Soldat.—Give a diagram of the "square" referred to in your letter of Sept. 5. The Q. M. D. has no knowledge of it.

Corporal.—The commanding officer of a militia company is the only authority qualified to appoint a Court-martial.

C. G. P. asks: Can a man use his retained pay and clothing money due towards purchase of discharge? Ans.—Yes.

Miles.—You are correct; the detail of Lieut. Edwards to St. John's (Fordham, N. Y.) College does not expire until December, 1893.

Sergeant asks: Can a white man, a capable non-commissioned officer and clerk, enlist in a colored regiment in the Army? Ans.—No. Read Sections 1104 and 1108, Revised Statutes.

C. B. T.—The bill to create a Board of Review on appeal from General Court-martial cases did not pass the Senate. There seems, however, to be a reasonable prospect of its passing at the 2d session of the 53d Congress.

J. McC. asks the best way to prepare to stand an examination for promotion to the rank of Lieutenant, sergeant major or sergeant of militia. Ans.—Study the new Drill Regulation, which can be secured from our office for 30 cents, and strive in every way to inform yourself as to military routine and duties.

Lex.—The paragraph you refer to is strictly in accordance with the 94th Article of War, which says: "Proceedings of trials shall be carried on only between the hours of eight in the morning and three in the afternoon, excepting in cases which, in the opinion of the officer apointing the court, require immediate example."

P. S.—Would like to know how it is that, while the Surgeon-General, in a circular of Aug. 25, 1892, asserts that the pay of the private in the Hospital Corps is $15 per month, he only receives $12 per month as usual. Ans.—For the simple reason, we presume, that the necessary instructions under the act of July 13, 1892, have not yet reached your post. Doubtless you will find that on the next muster and pay rolls the increase with back allowance is properly entered.

F. H.—I am about to be discharged from the Marine Corps, having served two enlistments with ten years good service to my credit; would like to join the Hospital Corps. If possible will you please give me the necessary information as to recruiting office, school of instruction and pay? Ans.—You can enlist at the Regular Army recruiting depot in Washington for service in the Hospital Corps. There is a school of instruction at Ft. Riley, Kas. Including service pay you would receive $21 per month.

G. W. asks: 1. Can a N. C. O. drawing re-enlistment pay go out on three years and three months? Ans.—Yes.

2. Will one garrison court and two summary courts, all for absences of short duration, prevent my getting faithful service? Ans.—We think not.

3. Never being tried in my first enlistment, and nine months of second, with discharge "Very good" for former and "Excellent" for latter, count for me towards discharge? Ans.—The drift of this question is not thoroughly understood. Each term of enlistment stands for itself. Good and faithful service in one enlistment will not offset unfaithful service in subsequent enlistment.

4. Can a N. C. O. receive unfaithful service? Ans.—Generally speaking, no. But there might be cases where he could. For instance, a man during the first two years and six months of his service conducts himself very badly and is tried over and over again; he then reforms, is bright and intelligent; is soon made a N. C. O. What would be the character of his antecedent service at the end of three years' service?

W. L. asks: 1. Was the office of lieutenant general created for Gen. Scott, and did it expire with his death? Ans.—Scott never was a lieutenant-general. He was brevetted a lieutenant-general under the act of Feb. 18, 1855, to date from March 29, 1847.

2. Were not the offices of general and lieutenant-general created for Grant and Sherman respectively, and did not both expire when they were vacated by these men, and was not a special act needed to make Sherman a general and Sheridan a lieutenant-general? Ans.—The grade of lieutenant-general was revived in February, 1864, for Grant. When Gen. Grant became President in March, 1869, and in consequence vacated his Army position, Sherman became general and Sheridan became lieutenant-general under the original acts referred to. By the act of July 15, 1870, the grades of general and lieutenant-general were abolished without prejudice, however, to the then incumbents—Sherman and Sheridan. When Sherman relinquished the command of the Army in 1883, a few months previous to his retirement for age, Sherman assumed command of the Army as lieutenant general under the special act of Congress of June 1, 1883. Sheridan was appointed general and the grade of lieutenant general was abolished. Sheridan died Aug. 5, 1888, and with his death the grade of general died too under the act of June 1, 1888. Since then a major general has commanded the Army.

Brewers of Fine Beer Exclusively.

Corn is a much cheaper article than barley malt. Corn beer is a drinkable beer, but it is a cheap coarse beer. The brewers who make it make money on it, but the public are imposed on. The difference between corn beer and fine barley malt beer is the difference between corn bread and fine wheat bread. Of the first you can eat a little, never much, and it is not always certain to assimilate. The latter can be eaten all the time, day after day, year after year, and the result is perfect and exuberant health; it is sweet, wholesome, nourishing and invigorating. Of corn beer you can drink but little without a protest from the stomach, and the effect is a loss of energy, weariness, stupidity and drowsiness. The barley malt beer, however, is a sparkling, spongy, healthy, quickly assimilating drink, with a body and a character smacking and vigorous. Its effect is buoyant, refreshing and invigorating. ANHEUSER-BUSCH brands are absolutely free from corn or corn preparation. Nothing but highest grade malt and hops are used in its preparation.

Their Motto is "Not how cheap but how good."
